Research Under Review

“The Strategy of Advocacy.” Under review at the Journal of Public Administration Research and Theory.

“Strategic Decisions and Nonprofit Advocacy: Why 501(c)(3) Organizations Lobby the Bureaucracy.” Under review at Public Administration Review.

Work In Progress

A project investigating the ways in which interest group theory can contribute to our understanding of advocacy choices by nonprofit organizations. My current work in this area develops and tests the assertion that 501(c)(3) organizations become politically active in order to fill niches left unoccupied by traditional interest groups.

A project examining the character, motivations for, and impact of state participation in rulemaking by federal agencies.
